

CompanySmith Acculitics®

Your Key to Project Performance & Predictability

CompanySmith, Inc. helps organizations accelerate time to market, reduce costs, build project leaders, and improve team performance. The company provides project solutions that enhance team credibility, ensure project predictability, and deliver business results quickly and cost effectively.

Working with companies in the technology, manufacturing, construction, controls, non-profit, and services sectors, CompanySmith improves the effectiveness of your company's team through field-proven processes for project assessment, planning, teaming, and communications.

CompanySmith provides a range of solutions designed to help companies, project teams, and individuals at any stage of a project, from project selection through the final steps of project delivery.

In addition to working directly with project teams to improve project results, CompanySmith offers coaching for project leaders. The firm also provides workshops and consulting services on project execution and product development, collaborative business tool selection, project management and reporting, improving the predictability of technical projects, and project leadership.

Acculitics – For Every Stage of Your Project

Team/Project Acculitics – a new, cutting-edge project success service that provides measurement-driven recommendations for improving team performance, project predictability, and business results. Best suited to projects that are 20 to 70% complete, Team/Project Acculitics measures the interactions of a team with its project plan. This measurement focus enables companies to achieve results more quickly and cost effectively than traditional teambuilding processes.

Team/Network Acculitics – a cutting-edge process to identify strengths and weaknesses of team working relationships to help the team prepare for successful project execution. Employed at early stages of a project – after the team is selected, but before the project plan is in place.

Project/Environment Acculitics – a quick and low cost survey of a company's readiness to execute projects based on their working environment. The strengths and weaknesses of the business's culture, norms and practices are measured and compared with best practices, experts' opinions, and industry averages. The results recommend areas for change to build a better work environment yielding more innovation, higher quality, and more predictable project results.

Endgame Acculitics – deployed when development is completed and punch lists are driving the project. With the singular focus of rapidly completing the project, field-proven team and project metrics combined with rapidly deployed tactical processes guide the project team and stakeholders in the completion of the project.

That's CompanySmith Acculitics: Enhancing credibility. Ensuring predictability.

CompanySmith

82 Carrington Lane
Uxbridge, MA 01569

© 2004 CompanySmith, Inc. All Rights Reserved

Phone: 617-250-3210
info@companysmith.com
www.companysmith.com